Today there is an appeal by Fr Honest of the Spiritan Fathers

PROPHECY VERSUS FALSE OPTIMISM

IN 2015 the Holy Father, following the example of Patriarch Bartholomew of Constantinople, designated today as a special Day of Prayer for Creation, in his encyclical Laudato Si'. One of the rather facile criticisms made of that letter at the time was that the pope was too pessimistic in his assessment of the damage we are doing to the planet, to God's created order. His urgency and the strength of his language many found unsettling. Given the current fires in the Amazon and Grand Canary, and policies being pursued by the leaders of the United States and Brazil, for example, the picture has in many ways got even gloomier in the last four years.

Those who attacked the pope for being pessimistic really don't understand the books of the prophets in the Old Testament - a good example would be Jeremiah, depicted here looking characteristically miserable in Michelangelo's Sistine Chapel in the Vatican. Prophets like him were not primarily concerned with predicting the future: rather they were concerned to denounce what the people and their rulers were doing at the present time. This is often a message of gloom and doom because they reject the solutions to problems which rulers are putting before the people - Jeremiah repeatedly tells the rulers of Judah they can't avoid the destruction coming on the state; military alliances with other peoples simply won't work. This makes the prophets deeply unpopular - Jeremiah was nearly killed and was thrown down a well at one point. In the New Testament Jesus endorses the ministry of the prophets of his people as a way of attacking the religious leaders in his own day. In our age, partly because we hear the message of the prophets read at Mass, we have recovered a sense of how this tradition is central to how we proclaim Jesus to the world. People often do have to be told how bad things really are.

Purveying false optimism is a sure sign that politicians are lying through their teeth. Many people, who really don't want to feel negative about the future, can be manipulated, particularly if the politicians preaching an optimistic message have boundless self-confidence, perhaps imbued by an expensive private education, protected by their personal wealth from future economic hardship. This is a widespread phenomenon - a few years ago in America a book was written by the cultural theorist Lauren Berlant entitled Cruel Optimism, which explores ways in which we sometimes desire things which we know will be harmful, a rather widespread phenomenon in our country at the moment.

Catholic Christians familiar with what the prophets say in the Old Testament will be suspicious of politicians who engage in the glib language of optimism - language attacking 'the doubters, the doomsters, the gloomsters' or invoking Britain's 'can-do spirit'; what you also get are a lot of arc references to Dunkirk and even the Titanic. It's all an effort to patronise people, to distract them from hard facts about economic realities, or the worsening racism and hatred in the country. Using 1950s comic book language is part of the trick: our 'betters' simply want us to trust them, in spite of their mendacity and incompetence.

The rulers of the kingdoms of Judah and Israel condemned by Jeremiah, Amos and the other prophets in Sacred Scripture were surely like this, as rulers so often are. The contempt which people in power have for those whom they rule depends on lying to people about how things are: 'Trust us, everything will be all right.' The Bible is the revelation of God to us: the prophetic writings are in the Scriptures to teach us something. The God of the poor and the oppressed, speaking through his prophets, is unimpressed by the glib assurances of the powerful and the rich. In the Bible, prophets call people to repentance - both the rulers and the whole community. An essential part of being able to seek and receive forgiveness from God, as we realise when we go to Confession, is to know exactly how bad things are, in our own lives and in the life of the world.

That is why prophetic pessimism is definitely not the same as the grave sin of despair. We can only find hope by realising the need to be forgiven: glib optimism is a symptom of a society which has lost any sense of sin, presided over by people of low moral worth. This is why as Catholics we should also be wary of calls from some Christian leaders for reconciliation and a desire to 'move on'. If the damage in our society is the result of sinfulness and systematic lying, then reconciliation isn't really possible until those responsible, and people who've supported them, acknowledge this. So Jeremiah says 'Woe to those who cry "Peace, Peace!" when there is no peace (6:14). What we really need are prophets.

CATHOLIC THEOLOGICAL ASSOCIATION ANNUAL CONFERENCE

Some of you know that a year ago I became President of the Catholic Theological Association. This is a support group founded in the 80s for Catholics teaching theology and related disciplines in Higher Education institutes and formation programmes for clergy. In the early years some very distinguished academics were President (e.g. Eamon Duffy and Nicholas Lash) and it's a great honour to be chosen for the role (for two years). There are major concerns about the future of theology in universities, like other Arts and Humanities subjects, and some of you would have seen an article I wrote about this in The Tablet earlier this year. Anyway I am sharing this with you as our annual conference is in Twickenham this week and we would value your prayers. It's on religious language and it's entitled Words and the Word: Words, Image and Ritual in Religion and Life, with some very distinguished keynote speakers. I will report on it later after the event. Details of the CTA's work can be found on www.ctagb.org.uk

ONLINE GIVING AND STANDING ORDERS

A very big thank you to all who have signed up for on-line giving through ChurchSuite or who donate monthly by standing order. Not only do payments made this way help us have a better idea of regular income for the parish but it also assists our team of counters by reducing the volume of cash for counting. There are currently 100 people paying by standing order and 166 paying by on-line giving through ChurchSuite. If you have any queries about setting up a Standing order or signing up to on-line giving please contact the parish office and we can help you.

ST EDMUND'S FOLK CHOIR

The Folk Choir returns to 5.30 Mass Sunday 8 September after our summer break. In September 2020, we will be celebrating our fiftieth year of singing in St Edmunds. We are also continuing to learn some of the new songs we added to our books in the recent reprint, so now is a great time to join us. All we ask is that you commit to practising on Thursdays at 8.15 (in the church) and to 5.30 Mass on Sundays. Singing ability and experience are nice to have, but not essential!

An evening of Italian opera classics.
Andrea Hixon is arranging a block booking to this event which is in aid of The Passage, the homeless charity in Westminster. Please see the flyer in the porch and if you are interested in coming leave your name and a telephone number with the Parish Office.

As our children return to school, move on to a new one or start school for the first time, here is a prayer for them and also one for the teachers to whom we entrust our children

Prayer for those at School

Lord our God,
in your wisdom and love
you surround us with the mysteries of the universe.
Send your spirit upon these students and fill them with your wisdom and blessings.
Grant that they may devote themselves to their studies and draw ever closer to you,
the source of all knowledge.
We ask this through Christ our Lord.
Amen.

Prayer for Teachers

Lord God, your spirit of wisdom fills the earth and teaches us in your ways.
Look upon these teachers.
Let them strive to share their knowledge with gentle patience
and endeavour always to bring the truth to eager minds.
Grant that we may follow Jesus Christ, the way, the truth and the life,
forever and ever.
Amen.

COLLECTION

Our collection last weekend raised £1726.02, with a further £1386.28 from Standing Orders and through ChurchSuite

On Friday 16 August our church shop was broken into. A great deal of force was used to bend the grille and the delivery of all the items for Christmas and some of the stock on display were taken. All the entrances to the church are covered by CCTV and recordings made and the perpetrators are clearly visible on our CCTV recording. The police are following up on this. Fr Steve has decided to keep the shop closed for a short time.

We are sorry if this causes any inconvenience but we are sure you will continue to support the shop and the tireless band of helpers who staff it when it reopens.

No refreshments after the 11.00 am Mass this Sunday
